CITY NEEDS $8,000,000 MORE, SAYS NICHOLS, AND TAX MAY HIT $3

Mayor Malcolm Edwin Nichols, three hundred more policemen, a possible increased tax rate and a pay raise for city workers, bowed to Boston today at the inaugural in Symphony Hall, an occasion that was tinted with sadness and once broken by sob.

And little Missie Nichols, three or four years old, "first lady of Boston," clasped her hands gleefully and three kisses through it all.

Devoting almost his entire address to the financial situation of the town, Mayor Andrews said that his tax commission had reported that the town's expanded franchise law this year would be so serious as to justify his warning that war was impending the village.

The Mayor, in his address, placed first in order to revert to the village tax rate of $40 in the near future. It would be necessary to be able to pay $120 or more for this

But even the main state of the municipal recovery was forgotten during the tribute paid by the new Mayor to John T. Carr, treasurer of the city of South Boston, who died last night on a road back home.

SENATOR WANTS HUB
NAVY YARD CLOSE

Arrangement of the Boston Navy Yard, together with the yards at Portsmouth, N. H., and Brooklyn, N. Y., was argued today in Washington by Senator King of Utah.

The navy's need for airplanes in submarines was given by Senator King as the basis for seeking also title to these naval bases.

In a public announcement of interest in being about closing the these yards he demanded that President Coolidge support his plea because it would be a move toward great national economy.

The navy needs submarines airplanes and run a lot of boats in the navy yards.

COOLIDGE ASKS $50,000 FOR GENEVA FUND

Washington, Jan. 4 (U.S.S.).—President Coolidge sent a special message to Congress today, requesting an appropriation of $50,000 to defray the expense of American delegates to the international conference in Geneva on Feb. 15 next, which is to discuss the possibility of securing a disarmament conference under the auspices of the League of Nations. His message automatically required congressional action.

In making this request, Mr. Coolidge emphasized that the United States is not committing itself to any treaty, and that the conference is not a permanent one, and that it is not a permanent one, and that it is not a permanent one.

ENGLISH READY TO FLEE PERIL OF FLOODS

London, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—After 15 successive days of rain, with the weather men forecasting further downpours, the people in and near the inundated areas of England are packing their belongings and preparing for heavy departures.

The waters continue to rise in the low-lying districts. The Thames went up again over Sunday and now measures more than a mile and a half across in some places. The district, through which the river flows, is now a vast sea of water. In the lower rooms of the houses and hundreds of acres are inundated in Yorkshire.

AMERICAN, JAN. 4 (A.P.).—The flood waters in Holland continue to rise, with further heavy rainfalls in various parts of the country.

The violent and heavy rainfalls at Hague, in North Brabant, Province, collapsed, and on the flooding of a canal was decided upon by the action of a dike. Details are lacking.

More troops and police have arrived in the flooded areas to assist the distressed population. King Albert and Queen Elisabeth of Belgium have authorized two million francs to fund the flood sufferers.

neighboring farm on July 22," said Labombarde, relating the events of the day the three sisters were killed. "That was at 9 in the morning. Louis had the team with some sense for a foundation we were building, and took it home."

"The incident between 1:30 and 2 o'clock. The staid around and I quit work in the hayfield and went with him about 1:30 or 2. We got home at 4 o'clock."

Labombarde said that when he saw his son at the Nashua police station after his arrest for the murder of the three sisters, "he had been beaten through a knothole."

CORROBORATES MOTHER.

He corroborated Mrs. Labombarde's story of Louis' pleading to be taken home, because he had "done nothing wrong."

He corroborated the psychological meaning of the youth's moanings, gasping, crying, and shouting, and his demonstration of scientific why a youth with his life hanging in the balance, went to sleep during some of the most important testimony for and against him.

Dr. Browning will endeavor to make his explanation of the technicalities and declare he will give in plain English so that there will be no doubt in the jury's mind what his branch of science reads in the actions and words of the defendant.

NO INSANITY PLEA.

No insanity plea will be made by the youth's counsel. They have invited their willingness to accept the state's admission that their client is sub-normal mentally and make this one of the highlights of the defense. It is contended that Labombarde is but ten years old mentally and that any of his five confessions might have been obtained by an interrogator of stronger mental power.

Italy Mourns Her

Queen Mother Margherita of Italy, who died today after illness of several weeks.

QUEEN MOTHER MARGHERITA IS DEAD IN ITALY

Budapest, Italy, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Dowager Queen Margherita, mother of King Victor Emmanuel, died today, aged 73.

She had been ill of pulmonary plagues several weeks.

It was Queen Margherita's visit that prevented the marriage of the Duke of Abruzzi to Miss Katherine Elton, now Mrs. William P. H. Pitt of Washington.

Charles throughout her life called Margherita Maria Teresa Giovanna, the name of King Humbert, to be especially beloved.

When a bullet fired by the anarchist, Rossini, killed Humbert, she was the first of the world were filled with tears of grief.

Margherita always wore clothes of a bright hue in contrast to King Humbert, who was noted for his simplicity of apparel.

She kept in touch with the latest developments in the arts, literature and sciences. She wrote a work on "The Heroism of Shakespeare," which once has been published, she also wrote poetry. She was opposed to divorce. A bill introduced in the Italian Parliament in 1902 was withdrawn at her request.

An attempt was made to assassinate her in 1903 while mourning at Little St. Bernard. Two assassins were made. While at Elysée Lee Baiges she was wounded.

While the fifth section, which had already unloaded its passengers to the La Salle street station, was backing out, the fifth section was to be switched to another track to make way for the sixth.

Before the fifth section reached the crossover, the sixth section suddenly started up and the two trains plunged into each other.

The shock of the collision shook the five sleeping coaches, diner, mail car and baggage car of the heavily loaded sixth section and buckled its engine back into the tender and forward. The engine was pinned against the side of his cab and was unconscious when lifted from the wreckage.

Three cars of the empty train were smashed and splintered. Passengers of fear and panic arose from the crowded sleeping cars as the workmen in the road rushed to lend

During one of the greatest riots in the history of Massachusetts' roadhouses, in which more than 100 New Year's revelers took part, 40 fur coats, valued at $25,000, were stolen from the rooming of the Fenwick Inn, Middlebury.

State police were called when three Middlebury policemen were unable to stem the mad stampede of men and women seeking their belongings. The call for the State Troopers came at 11:30 p.m., fully four hours after the riot started.

In the meantime three men in a new bearing New York license plates had made off with some 60 fur coats, some valued as high as $1,200, and others ranging down in value to $100.

The attack upon the room room seemed to be a concerted one, and happened when the rooming girl, seeing the riot was about to get her hands on. This precipitated the melee, and men and women took each other's clothes almost off in a frantic effort to secure their property.

Women were knocked down as well as men, but all the time there were a few, those to be exact, calm ones who made good their time and made off with at least sixty coats.

For hours the fight went on. When a woman would grab a handbag, she would be pulled and torn by her hands and torn to shreds by some other woman claiming it as her own or as a substitute for one she had lost. Men were carried off in the fight.

MAYOR BATES DEMANDS LOWER SALES TAXES

Boston, Jan. 4.—Michael J. Doyle was elected president of the board of councilors sworn in today for the year of 1926. Mayor George J. Bates, in his inaugural, said the slogan of the administration would be "economy and low taxes."

The councilors are Mrs. C. H. Redwell, William O. Doyle, Timothy W. Fitzgerald, Michael P. McGarr, and William O. Redford.

DONOVAN ASKS 'JUSTICE' ON INDICTMENT

Lowell, Jan. 4.—For the first time since he was indicted in a City Hall graft probe, Mayor John J. Donovan today spoke in his own defense when he told the new city council he did not fear charges against him and asked only justice.

The mayor launched an attack against his critics declaring there had been "much smoke and little fire" and that the mud in his administration had been spoken of in a whisper. He attacked indirectly the City League, which brought about the City Hall investigation.

The mayor faces his first fight this afternoon when it is expected, he will respond to department heads, several men who were indicted with him. Still opposition is expected from new councilmen.

In his message the mayor advocated a new police station, generous aid to the children's health camp and a municipal garage.

HOLD DOCTOR IN FATAL ILLEGAL OPERATION

Framingham Telephone Operator Dead; Accessory Names a Back Bay Physician

Accused in his office in Framingham, Mass. After a three-hour search today, the Alfred Lezer, about 40 years old, was arrested in Framingham and held in the local jail on a charge of performing an illegal operation.

The girl in the case was Miss Alice, 25-year-old, Framingham telephone operator, who died at her home last evening. The case was continued to January 11.

Edward H. Sullivan of Grand Street, Framingham, was held as accessory before the fact. He is charged with having employed the doctor.

Authorities trapped Dr. Lezer in his office at 121 Union Street, Framingham, by following him to the house where he was hiding. The girl was found dead in the house.

STENOGRAPHERS' WEEK

Every Stenographer Knows

that a smooth gliding pen point that responds to differences in pressure at various angles is essential to good shorthand. The problem is to find such a pen.

Waterman's Stenographer's Special

fills the bill. The long, uniform-tipped point is rolled and hammered until as resilient as a watch spring. It slides over paper as an expert skater glides over glass ice.

TRIES SUICIDE; IMPERILS FOUR

An attempt of Kenneth Hoyt, 25, mechanical engineer of Boston street, to take his life by inhaling gas today, nearly cost the lives of his wife, Marion, and his three small children.

He is lying in a local hospital and his wife is suffering from the effects of the fumes, she inhaled while saving her children.

Mrs. Hoyt was awakened early as the fumes permeated their apartment. Finding her husband lying on a gas mask, she called for help and saved the family from fear and shock.

Mrs. Hoyt entered the sleeping child's room with blankets.

Lenglen Says She Has Only Severe Cold

Paris, Jan 4 (A P) —Suzanne Lenglen.

French, own tennis star, is a victim only of a severe cold, it is learned today, thus quieting the speculation aroused by her retirement from the Borden tournament at Cannes, that her illness was of a more serious character. She is expected today her intention of playing in the French tournament at Nice.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

Buy New England goods—support New England industries—best in the world.

Greetings, Mr. Mayor

All Public-Spirited Men and Women who Transpire With You for a Great Federal City.

Greetings, Mr. Mayor. A cordial welcome to you at the beginning of your work as Mayor of Boston.

We observe you are in joyful spirits and good health, which enables you to approach your work with clear vision, good understanding and physical strength, reinforced by a sturdy conscience.

You are about to enjoy the center of high honor tempered with the freedom and speed of daily service. One of the reasons for your being elected Mayor is that your fellow citizens believed you were capable of giving service.

You are expected to get much enjoyment for some 17,000 city employees who as a rule enjoy good pay, short hours and have every incentive to render good service to their fellow citizens. From the humblest almsman to the haughty taxgatherer all may be means of some slight happiness.

When your car turned down School Street this morning after the inauguration at Symphony Hall, you could not but be impressed with two things: how short School Street is and how straight it is. In Downtown St. Paul found the VIA RECTA the "street that is straight" and there recovered his eye-sight.

You will have need of your eye-sight all the time that you are occupied at City Hall, but you must not allow it to grow dim while engaged in the drab mechanics of the office.

Insist that your Department heads be HONEST and that their recommendations, when placed before you, are HONEST as well AS COMPLETE. It is not to be expected that you can personally check up each report. Don't try it.

With honest heads the routine of the office will speedily adjust itself. Your real work consists of enlarging the sphere of influence of the City. This will employ your energy.

In announcing your candidacy you said, speaking of the City Government, "IT WILL COMPEL THE LEGISLATURE TO RESPECT BOSTON in her right to local self-government." This is a solemn truth which the people expect you to emphasize.

And then comes your great issue:

"Boston is the business center of nearly two million people who live in two score municipalities clustering around the head of Massachusetts Bay. The men and women of this metropolitan city under the leadership of the Mayor of Boston should join hands and work together for a mighty greater Boston. I shall conduct a municipal administration whose high standard will give these men and women full confidence to unite in this great undertaking."

In this, Mr. Mayor, the Boston Evening American joins with you most heartily. Boston has remained long enough in the obscurity of indifference to emerge a Federated City of INTERNATIONAL importance.

We must have the intelligent and earnest cooperation of all public spirited men and women in Federated Boston to join in this, the greatest civic movement of New England at the opening of the second quarter of this century.

Ask This Question—Insist on an Honest Answer

What kind of dispute could we have with any other nation that we would be willing to submit for adjudication by the World Court of the League of Nations which we would not be willing now to submit to the already existing Hague Tribunal for international arbitration—and why?

You Americans who still believe in the wisdom of Washington's admonition, "avoid entangling foreign alliances," should ask that question of your friends who are advocates of our entering the World Court back door of the League of Nations. You should insist upon a categorical answer and not be satisfied with any reply that avoids the real issue.

BayStateFolkLivingLonger

State of Maine, Portland

The time will come soon, Dr. George Bigelow believes, when half the deaths in Massachusetts will be deaths of persons 60 years of age or older.

And only a generation ago, the new Commissioner of Health reminds us, LESS THAN ONE-THIRD of our people reached the age of threescore.

Reviewing the work of the State Board of Health since its creation in the middle of the last century, Commissioner Bigelow describes its pioneer work in the sanitary control of water and sewage, tells how Massachusetts was first of the States to maintain a tuberculosis hospital, and asserts that the distribution of vaccines and antitoxins by the Commonwealth saves unnumbered lives every year.

In the past fifteen years, the death rate in Massachusetts from communicable diseases has been about halved, a large part of this reduction being in the infant death rate.

In the same period, however, the death rate for diseases of middle life has nearly doubled and the call of the moment is for the extension of the field of prevention to cancer, diabetes and diseases of the heart and the kidneys.

Some of these boys and girls we have been worrying about, it appears likely, may be discussing other shirks and shapers 100 years from now, and serve us right. Before that happy condition could come, however—and who knows but Mr. Methuselah's record is in danger—there will have to be perfect co-operation by the medical profession and the laity.

Doctors must KNOW what sound prevention is and must PRACTICE it. The public must WANT sound prevention bad enough to GET IT.

All together, for a long life and a happy one! Mind the doctor!

SENTINEL PLANETS OF THE UNIVERSE

By Garrett P. Servis,
Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

Since Neptune and Uranus now discovered as the result of computations, can they be seen without the aid of the telescope? You must read about them in the pages of the Boston Evening American.

NEPTUNE was discovered by means of mathematical computation based upon the visible orbit of Uranus upon the field of its attraction upon the planet Neptune. Uranus was not found in that way.

The discovery of Neptune was the first of the discovery of the "new planets" of the universe. It was the first of the discovery of the "new planets" of the universe.

A new planet after its discovery was named after the Roman god of the sea, Neptune. It was the first of the discovery of the "new planets" of the universe.

THREE BAD FORMS OF SELF-CONCEIT

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There are three bad forms of self-conceit. They are: One is that which makes a man quit working and start loafing.

Another is that which makes a man personally disagreeable.

A third is that which induces one to look for and test his success by other rewards.

Self-conceit is liable to crystallize into one of these three forms.

In the first place, for instance, a man may be very conceited and egotistical, but he keeps on working. It is said that Bernard Shaw has a very good opinion of himself, but he keeps producing. The kind of egotism that makes a man start loafing and think that he has done enough is bad. If you are such a wonderful fellow, keep on at work and produce something.

In the second place conceit is liable to make us disagreeable. I have said elsewhere that there is just one quality in men that we dislike, and that is vanity in one form or another.

We like people to be interested in us, and a man that is entirely wrapped up in himself and can talk and think of nothing but himself is apt to be unpleasant.

The third way in which conceit is bad is that it may cause us to seek our rewards in other people. That was the trouble with the Pharisees. Jesus said of them, "They had their reward."

If we do a kind and noble or generous act and expect it to be appreciated, it has lost half its value. It shows that we are in a measure vain; but if we do what is right simply because it is right and we enjoy it and have no thought of reward, it gives a better quality to our actions.

When a man quits inspiring people and begins to scold them he has lost his power. People like to have suggested to them what to do, but they do not like to be ordered about.

These three things may check up on each other. Self-respect is commendable, but just where self-respect verges over into self-conceit it is sometimes hard to tell.

These three tests may assist us in telling.

If our conceit leads us to commence loafing and if we find not doing to do that is worth while, if we find that people do not like us as a rule, and if we find ourselves looking only to others for our reward, we must assure that our good opinion of ourselves has passed over from self-respect into self-conceit.

As a rule, I say, people ought to like you. If nobody likes you, you may well ask yourself if there is not something wrong with you. People are everywhere much the same and as a rule they are just, and if they universally detest you there must be some good reason for it.
